

Introduction

Country Roads Veterinary Services, Inc was founded in July 2007 and was formerly known as Keystone Veterinary Services and Fulk Veterinary Clinic. The practice was originally established in 1972. Currently there are two locations. Country Roads Veterinary Services is a mixed animal (primarily dairy) practice and Ashland Veterinary Clinic is a 100% small animal practice.

Veterinarians

David T. Brennan DVM

Dr. Dave Brennan graduated from The Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine in 2007. Dave was born and raised in the Ashland area. He has been a mixed animal veterinarian with the practice since graduating. Dave's professional interests include reproductive ultrasound, surgery, milking system analysis, dairy nutrition, and small animal surgery. Dave is married to Lisa and they have two children, Maddie and Carter.

Ellen E. Yoakam DVM

Dr. Ellen Yoakam graduated from The Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine in 2008. She is a third generation veterinarian and is from the Crestline area. Ellen started her professional career at Napoleon Veterinary Clinic and became an associate mixed animal veterinarian of our practice in December 2008. Ellen's professional interests include reproductive ultrasound, large animal medicine and surgery, equine medicine, small animal behavior, small animal dentistry and small animal ultrasound. Ellen is actively involved in the Ohio Veterinary Medical Association. Ellen is married to Mark and they have two children.

Austin R. Clark DVM

Dr. Austin Clark is from the Youngstown area and graduated from The Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine in 2016. He is an associate mixed animal veterinarian rotating between Ashland Veterinary Clinic and Country Roads Veterinary Services. His interests are internal medicine, preventative medicine, and dairy cattle reproduction. Dr. Clark is married to his wife, Hannah, and they have one daughter named Eva.

Dairy Practice

Our dairy practice covers a 40 mile radius and provides services to over 100 dairy farm clients. Our practice has many new dairy farms with half of all dairy clients in business less than 10 years. We have 3-5 new dairy farms constructed each year which provides us with the opportunity to teach and assist young and energetic dairy producers. We service small farms ranging in size from 40 to 200 cows. One of the goals of our practice is to introduce new services and be an invaluable resource in all aspects of our producer's operations. We want to utilize technology and management techniques to help our small farmers have a profitable business.

Small Animal Practice – Ashland Veterinary Clinic

The goal of our small animal practice is to provide high quality medicine, surgery and dentistry in a rural setting. We provide several advanced procedures (dental procedures, surgeries, ultrasound) and accept referrals from several local practices. We want to provide the latest equipment and techniques as well as a trained, capable staff to assist our companion animal clients and patients.

Student Opportunities

We accept student externs at all stages of their veterinary education. We have housing available in our office for up to two students. Length of externship is two weeks. Interested students should contact David Brennan DVM for further information. Students will be exposed to all aspects of our practice, both small and large animal, during their externship.

Scholarships

The Country Roads Scholarship is a fully funded endowed scholarship providing an award of up to $1000 to a senior student interested in dairy production medicine. The Country Roads Veterinary Services Summer Externship Scholarship is awarded to up to two students each year. Qualified students in the summer between CVM2 and CVM3 are encouraged to apply for this two week externship. Housing is provided. At the end of the externship, the student is awarded a scholarship of $500-1500 utilizing matching funds from the OVMA Food Animal Externship Program.
